

Jack and the Beanstalk part 2

Narrator : Jack and his mother are happy. They have the magic hen which lays gold eggs. They are no longer poor. But there is a problem. The gold harp does not like them.

Harp : Where is my master? I want to return to the castle in the clouds.

Mother : I am now your mistress because the giant is dead. You can play music for me now.

Harp : I will never play music for you! Where is the big lady? She is my mistress.

Narrator : There is not much left of the beanstalk because Jack's mother cut it down. Jack and his mother do not think that the giantess can leave the castle in the clouds.

Jack : The harp never plays nice music. She just cries for her mistress. Let's put the harp in the barn.

Mother : We have been kind to her but she hates us. It will be better if she lives in the barn.

Hen : Thank you Jack and mother. You are so kind to me. The giant and his wife were cruel. They kept me in a little box so that they could find my gold eggs easily. You let me go in the garden and you give me good food.

Narrator : Two months after the giant died the beanstalk starts to regrow during the night. The harp, as usual, is crying for her mistress. The big lady hears her and sees that the top of the beanstalk is once again near the castle in the clouds.

Big lady: I don't know where my husband is. He might be with the harp. I will climb down the beanstalk and look for him, the harp and the hen.

Jack : Oh no! I can see the giantess on the beanstalk. Mother come quickly !

Mother : I can't see the axe. Let's hide! Bring the magic hen into the house.

Big lady : I can hear my harp singing in the barn. I'm coming !

Harp, where are the giant and the magic hen?

Harp: The giant is dead and the magic hen is with Jack and his mother.
Be careful! The mother has an axe. We must escape now !

Big lady : Quick, let's climb up the beanstalk !

Jack : Can you see the big lady?

Mother : She is not here and the harp has also disappeared !

Jack : Quickly cut down the beanstalk!

Narrator : The giantess and the harp arrive in the castle before Jack's mother cuts down the beanstalk with an axe. The magic hen is pleased to stay with Jack and his mother and they are all happy that the harp has left the farm. Life is now much more peaceful.

Finish the sentences :

There is a problem because ...

The magic hen does not like the giant and giantess because.....

They put the harp in the barn because

The giantess can climb down the beanstalk because

